Overview

For more than a decade Ashley has focused her practice on all areas of Domestic Relations law including divorce, child custody and visitation, domestic violence, adoption, dependency, abuse and neglect, and termination of parental rights. After graduating from law school Ashley went into private practice with her father where she honed her skills in the domestic relations practice for more than 14 years prior to joining Rendigs.

When not in the office, Ashley likes to spend time with her husband and their three kids. On the weekends she enjoys going for long runs and cooking dinner for friends and family. When she is not attending the numerous sporting events of each of her three children, you can usually find her reading a great novel or cookbook.
